

Erin Wallace
College Counselor

Ms. Wallace began her work for DCS in 2021, meeting virtually with scholars as they brainstormed and wrote their personal statements and supplemental essays. She continues this work today, in addition to supporting scholars with the college application process.

Ms. Wallace has always been passionate about writing and storytelling. She began teaching in 2010 and has worked in both higher education and independent high schools. She spent many years directing plays and musicals. Serving as a guide to students as they craft a believable world under imaginary circumstances with confidence has been some of the most rewarding work that she has done. When

Ms. Wallace began working with students on their college essays she fell in love with the process. The scholars of DCS have been some of the most humble, hardworking, and respectful students she has ever collaborated with. Ms. Wallace loves every step of the writing process, from the early brainstorming to the editing and polishing. She encourages scholars to write their truth, listen to their heart, and find joy in the work. She looks forward to supporting the scholars in every step of the college application process, from research to application to commitment.

Ms. Wallace earned a bachelor's degree in Spanish and Theatre from The University of New Hampshire and an MFA from Virginia Commonwealth University in Theatre Pedagogy. She and her family live at George School in Newtown, PA. She loves making granola, writing letters, traveling to Maine, and being outside.
